quarters, complimenting him on the splendid carriage and passage of the Second Regiment.

COLONEL BURPEE'S GUESTS.

Among the guests of the Second who took dinner with Colonel Burpee were: ex-Colonel Doherty of the Second, Congressman N. D. Sperry, H. Wales Lines of Meriden, Senator Platt, General Kellogg, Captain Bushnell of Wallingford, Major Blakeslee, Captain Luddington, Mrs. Pickett of New Haven, Insurance Commissioner F. A. Betts, ex-Adjutant-General Embler.

THE REVIEW.

After the review of the Gatling guns was held and consisted of firing drill besides other gun maneuvers. This was followed by the heavy artillery drill. The regular battalion drill was held at 4 o'clock, but the men were excused from regimental drill. While the review was going on a detail of men was firing shells from the ten-inch siege mortars stationed at the shore. These shells were so fixed with fuses that they would explode about ten seconds after leaving the gun. Half-pound charges of powder were used, this amount being necessary to carry the shells to the required distance. All the ammunition used for these guns was stored in the magazine built under the earthworks. The firing was in charge of Sergeant Connor of Battery A, First artillery. The battery will break camp this evening at 6:30.

EX-COLONEL DOHERTY HONORED—OTHER NOTES.

Late in the afternoon, as a mark of esteem, ex-Colonel Doherty was presented by the Officers' association of the Second with a large, valuable clock. This clock stands about five and a half feet high and has a gold plate with an inscription designating the donors. The clock cost $15 and was furnished by the George H. Ford company of New Haven. It was an elegant gift. The speech of presentation was made by Colonel Burpee, in which he spoke of the high esteem of the regiment for Colonel Doherty and his valuable services and highly honorable record.

The officers of the guard detail from the Second to-day were: Captain Kennedy of the Sarsfield, officer of the day; Lieutenant Dann of Company F, officer of the guard; and Lieutenant Standland of Company A, supernumerary officer.

The number of visitors on the camp ground to-day was said to be greater than ever before and much difficulty was experienced in keeping the field clear for the review and drills.

Privates Thomas Hardigan and J. D. Leary have formed a separate battalion, consisting of the high privates in the front rank of the Sarsfield Guard.

Thomas J. Mulby, ex-quartermaster sergeant, was in camp to-day. The "Bug Quartet" had for visitors to-day the following New Haven people: Mrs. Etta Staudt, Miss Annie Dittler, Miss Christie Chadwyne and Miss Kittie Krauter.

Schreck, Corporal Metz and Private Scorents. Those from company D are Sergeant Beebe, Corporal Garlock and Privates Gilbert and Atchison.

Among Company D's visitors to-day were Mrs. O. Kirst, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kirst, Mrs. L. Kappeler and George Kappeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dolph and Mrs. Hennessy of New Haven visited Musican Dolph of Company D.

Among the ladies noticed visiting the Second regiment were Miss Amy McCrory of New London, Miss Adelle Rowland of New Haven and Misses Jessie and Carrie Emmerlich of New London.

Band Master Fichtl shone in patent leathers on parade to-day. Company F, the Hartford City Guard, had their street decorated finely to-day with flags, bunting and streamers. They will have an illumination this evening.

The camp will break up to-morrow after dinner, and the Second regiment will start for home about 1:30. The section of tents next to the shore will be left standing for the use of the naval reserves.

LAST NIGHT'S CELEBRATION.

Camp Coffin, Aug. 16.—(Evening)—To-night there were celebrations in every quarter of the camp ground. There was a grand illumination over on the north side of the camp ground opposite brigade headquarters. The illumination to-night was made more of a feature among militia men this year than ever before and the pyrotechnic display was the best that has ever been witnessed in camp. Governor Coffin did not stay in camp to witness the celebrations this evening, but quietly left the camp ground early this evening and took a train for his home in Middletown. It was generally believed that he was on his way to the Morton house when he left the camp ground this afternoon. Among the companies, in camp whose illuminations were noticeable were Companies D, E, and G of the Second Regiment, Companies E, F, of the Third, and H, C, D, of the First. Companies D and B of the Fourth had decorations also. At the battery to-night there was a mill between Austin Rice of New London and "Tracy's Unknown." A platform was erected at the battery and many militia men witnessed the fight. Decision was given to Rice.

Before the fight ended the lights went out and the interest was so great in the match that the colored lanterns were carried away from some of the tents which were illuminated and hung across the platform. The fight then proceeded and lasted for five rounds.

Private Holmes of Company D of the Third Regiment was placed under arrest this evening and taken to the guard house. It was learned that Holmes had stolen several silver spoons from the mess house belonging to the caterer. He will be brought before the lieutenant of his company to-morrow morning and court martialled.

MacDougall was employed by the Dominican agency until recently when he was discovered in some shady transactions which consisted of forging names to contracts, etc. He also collected subscriptions from a large number of firms and failed to make any returns to the agency. Among his latest victims was George Smith of Waterbury, from whom he secured $500 in cold cash by means of a fraudulent check.

CHARGED WITH A BENIGN CRIME.

Three Years in State Prison Stares John H. Lawlor in the Face.

John Henry Lawlor of 107 Division street was arrested last evening by Patrolman Gibson on a warrant and locked up, charged with a crime which, if proven, will cause his confinement in the state prison for a term of not less than three years. Bonds were fixed at $1,000, in default of which Lawlor was compelled to spend the night in the lockup.

Lawlor is a plumber, but recently has been employed in a grocery store on Dixwell avenue. The complainant in the case is Georgiana Hood, a twenty-year-old girl of feeble mind, who lives with her sister at the corner of Fruit and Dorman streets. It is charged that Thursday while the sister was at Light-house Point at a picnic, Lawlor went into the house and assaulted the feeble-minded girl. Later in the day Georgiana told her sister about the affair and admitted that she had been assaulted in a similar manner a month before.

On the way to the Dixwell avenue precinct, after his arrest, it is alleged that Lawlor acknowledged his guilt and said that he had not been arrested when he was left alone in the city. He is nineteen years old and is arrested under the statute enacted at the recent session of the general assembly. He will be arraigned in the city court this morning.

"A PLEASURE THAT CLOYS."

A Lady's Protest—A Woe Complained Of, To the Editor of the JOURNAL AND COURIER.—An anxious woman, non-smoker, would like to know why there are signs in all of the excursion cars prohibiting smoking on all except the two rear seats. It has been the writer's misfortune—and she voices the sentiments of others—not women only—to sit in sundry and divers places other than the "two rear seats," and has been obliged to inhale tobacco smoke for nine or ten miles. Even the pleasure of sitting back of a man and inhaling his cigar smoke (in some cases the smoker has that delightful healthy accomplishment of exhaling the smoke through his nose) or in the case of a chewer, receiving a shower of tobacco juice in the face and on one's clean shirt waist, cloy after a time, and unless the bete noire leaves the car a healthful state of mind or clothes is not a result. The writer has not a bee in her bonnet as to smoking in its place, but under the above cited circumstances the elasticity of one's patience is entirely destroyed. Does it ever occur to some people that there are a few people on this little ball who have sensitive throats? They may have the misfortune to be in the same boat some day.

To Improve Morals.

Asbury Park, Aug. 16.—Founder Bradley's latest move to improve the morals of Asbury Park is causing much comment among the young people who have been in the habit of strolling down to "Lovers' Retreat" at Deal Beach after dark. Some of the young folks feel indignant at this sign, which has been nailed up in a conspicuous place:

"No person will be allowed to pass the point after dark, for reasons known to the police."

Several young couples were prevented last night by the police from visiting their famous resort. They went to Mr. Bradley to-day and asked for an explanation. Founder Bradley told them that he had put up the sign not to offend any one, but to keep objectionable persons from visiting the secluded spot on the beach after dark.
